About Cheryl Kagan

Cheryl Kagan is proud to be in her fifth year as the State Senator from District 17, Gaithersburg & Rockville. Prior to her election to the Senate, Kagan served eight years in the House of Delegates and returned to the community.] She is known as a hard-working, independent, effective, and creative leader who builds broad coalitions in order to make progress on policy issues. Maryland Matters labeled her a “Winner” for passing “a slew of legislative victories, including a statewide ban on polystyrene food packaging — the first of its kind in the nation — enhanced 911 systems, more oversight of the Maryland Technology Economic Development Corporation, and some election reform bills.”

Kagan serves on the Education,

Health, and Environmental Affairs Committee, the Joint Audit Committee, and the Joint Committee on Federal Relations. This year, she was named as the Chair of the vital AELR (Administrative, Executive, Legislative Review) Committee). The MD Municipal League has named her a “Superstar” for her advocacy on behalf of our cities and towns, and the MD Association of Counties made her “Legislator of the Year.” Inducted into the Circle of Excellence after being named a “Top 100 Women” three times, Kagan was recognized as Government Leader of the year by the National NextGen911 Institute and given the Newsome Award by the Center for Nonprofit Advancement.
